The Polycom VoiceStation 100 provides a natural hands-free business communications solution. With Polycom's Acoustic Clarity Technology, the VoiceStation 100 lets you have productive, two-way conversations.

Handset speakerphones are fine for listening to voicemail or conducting short conversations, but they usually don't offer the technology that makes natural two-way conversations possible. For business-critical clarity in small rooms and offices, the affordable Polycom VoiceStation 100 is the clear choice.

Polycom VoiceStation 100 Conference Phone System

CG Award:

Triangular in design with three sensitive microphones at the vertices and a speaker in the middle, the Polycom VoiceStation 100 Conference Phone System is one of the better conferencing units on the market.

Often speakerphones are not full-duplex, meaning that you must alternate your conversations, but with this model you get good sound quality in both directions without the gaps and interruptions created by half-duplex products.

With most of the available surface area devoted to the priorities (microphones and speaker), the remaining area contains a simple dial pad, mute, redial, and flash. You can adjust the output volume up to 85dB.

On the back of the unit is a data port and a RCA output for sending audio to a recording or broadcasting device. The unit operates on both PBX systems and public switched systems.

Polycom products are consistently the top performers in the conferencing market and the relatively low-priced VoiceStation 100 falls firmly in step.
